

Oswaldo Borraez Newscaster for Univision 34

Oswaldo Borraez serves as a field reporter for Univision 34's Emmy Award winning newscast, "Noticias Univision 34". With extensive experience in television and radio, Borraez first joined Univision 34 in June 1995.

During his journalistic career, Borraez has interviewed key high-profile individuals such as Mexican President Vicente Fox and former First Lady Barbara Bush. He has also covered several major news events throughout the city and the nation including the O.J. Simpson murder trial verdict and the Selena homicide trial in Texas.

Prior to joining Univision 34, Borraez worked for KVEA-TV as a reporter and for KWHY-TV, Channel

22 in Los Angeles. Within the radio industry, Borraez has worked for radio station KALI, KFVB, and CNN Radio.

Borraez and his cameraman were recognized in 2002 with the "Best TV Spot News" Award given by the National Association of Hispanic Journalists for their "Huntington Park" story that informed viewers about the riots caused by football soccer fans after a pre-qualifier game for the World Cup 2002.

A native of Bogota, Colombia, he studied journalism at the National University of Colombia. He received his Master's Degree from the University of Colombia.

08/30/06